

Leader in Zero-Day Protection

Sophos detected more new unknown malware reported to the independent AVIEWS mailing list in a four month period than any other vendor. AVIEWS is the Anti-Virus Information & Early Warning System, an online community that shares information about breaking malware threats between anti-virus vendors, researchers, security experts, and system administrators.

In the four month study Sophos was found to proactively detect 80% of all unknown malware reported to the mailing list, higher than any other vendor, compared to 50% for Microsoft, 35% for Symantec and 30% for McAfee.
